

resignation awaiting me. I had not asked for your resignation because I feel entirely certain that you are worthy of no office. But if you insist on resigning I shall have to appoint your successor.

I shall do so as soon as I can. I have always found you honest and correct to a dot, and it grieves me to see any such man sacrificed even for the time being. Very truly yours,

W. J. GAYTOR,
Mayor.

Charles E. Hyde, Esq., City Chamberlain.

Assuming, it would appear, that the Mayor would not appoint his successor unless he insisted upon resigning, Mr. Hyde sent to his Honor what might be called a respectful communication this afternoon. This was with a view of setting forth his position clearly and also making his inexistence plain. The letter reads:

New York, May 3.

My Dear Mr. Mayor:—Your kind letter of this date is just as usual, and I appreciate very deeply your expression of confidence in me. Although you feel as you do personally I cannot allow your administration to bear my burdens, just as unjust, and I therefore ask that you appoint a successor to whom I may turn over the affairs of the office of Chamberlain. Very respectfully yours,

CHARLES E. HYDE.

A peculiar demand from Assistant District Attorney Clark was made upon Deputy City Chamberlain Walsh to-day. He was required to make out a statement of the daily balances carried by the city in the Northern Bank between Aug. 23, 1909—the date of the alleged meeting between Hyde and Walsh—and the time of the failure of the bank.

Mr. Walsh was told to produce his records before the Grand Jury this afternoon. This would indicate that the Grand Jury is still working on the matter of Hyde's indictment.

Whitman to Have Help.
District Attorney Whitman will engage as special counsel to try Hyde some big Republican lawyer. Either Frank S. Black or Henry L. Smith may be selected. The District Attorney's routine business would not allow him to go actively into a protracted fight against such a resourceful opponent as Samuel Untermyer.

Mr. Whitman's attention was called this morning to Hyde's declaration that the indictment was the result of a "kick conspiracy" and the statement that politics is at the bottom of it. The District Attorney's comment was:

"Well, if the indictment was part of a political conspiracy the closing of the Carnegie Trust Company must have been a political conspiracy. They both grew out of the same transaction. I do not intend Mr. Hyde. The Grand Jury indicted him. The grand jurors are under oath not to allow their prejudices or any outside influences to swerve their judgment."

It was announced to-day that the Grand Jury is not through with its investigation into the acts of Chamberlain Hyde, and to-day Secretary Smith is to be examined again. The jurors, it is understood, desire to question him on statements credited to him in some of the newspapers.

Cheney a Witness.
The main witness before the Grand Jury yesterday was Orion H. Cheney, state superintendent of banks, who in explaining why he had permitted the Carnegie Trust Company to remain open so long, contradicted part of the testimony of Robert A. Franks, confidential man of business of Andrew Carnegie, and indirectly of Mr. Carnegie himself.

In substance, the superintendent told the Grand Jury that he had real basis for his belief that Carnegie had not permitted the trust company that bore his name to go under. Carnegie has denied this, and so has Franks. Cheney told how Franks had assured Joseph Howell, when the latter told the practice of the tottering concern that Cheney, and permitted the assurance to Cheney, that the Carnegie Trust would not fail.

You are jumping into a bed of quicksand," Franks is said to have written to Howell, "but underneath you will find solid rock." The solid rock referred to was Andrew Carnegie.

"Any time you are in trouble," Franks is reported to have added, "let me know and we will throw you a rope."

The quicksands, according to Cheney, began to close over the trust company, but the rope wasn't thrown.

FUNDS FOR LORIMER PROBE.

Senate Committee Approves Expense Bill for New Inquiry.
WASHINGTON, May 3.—Renewal of a Lorimer investigation was provided to-day by the Senate Committee on Finance, which approved a resolution authorizing the expenditure of $100,000 for the purpose of such an inquiry. The report will come in the Senate to-morrow and a fight is expected.

ALMA C. ARNOLD ARRESTED.

Mrs. Alma C. Arnold was held in the West Side Court this afternoon upon the charge of practicing medicine without a license under a bond of $50.

TRUST HAS GRIP ON SHOE TRADE.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—A charge that shoe manufacturers in this country are at the mercy of the Shoe Machinery Trust was made at the reciprocity hearing before the Senate Finance Committee to-day by Mr. E. F. Lohrman of Chicago.

In order to get necessary shoemaking machinery, he said, they were required to sign contracts binding themselves to buy all of their machinery from the trust for a period of seven years, and agreeing not to buy machinery from any other American manufacturer.

While the shoe manufacturers were complaining to the Senate Committee on Finance of the shoe machinery "trust," Representatives Weeks of Massachusetts was declaring in the House that a "beneficent monopoly" by one corporation of such machinery offered it to lease the machines at a very low rate to American manufacturers.

The clash of testimony was almost simultaneous. Mr. Weeks offered his statement in the House in opposition to the free list bill. The Senate hearing, while ostensibly on reciprocity, has been thrown open to a discussion of the free list bill.

There is no combination in the shoe industry," declared Mr. Weeks. "Nor in the leather or tanning industry. There is no trust or monopoly connected with these trades."

STEEL, WOOLLEN, SHOE AND SUGAR TRUSTS UNDER FIRE

Assailed in Senate and House and Investigations of All Are Probable.

BILLS ARE UNDER WAY.

Express Trust Also Included by Action of the Interstate Commerce Board.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The trusts were under hot fire in the Senate and House to-day, broadsides being hurled at the Steel, Shoe, Woollen and Sugar Trusts.

For the first time in its history the Steel Trust will in all probability be investigated. This is made possible by the action of the House Committee on the House, which voted to report favorably the Stanley resolution, which calls for a sweeping inquiry into the business methods and connections of the United States Steel Corporation.

The Shoe Trust was assailed by manufacturers before the Senate Finance Committee at a hearing on the Canadian Reciprocity bill. The charge was made that the United Shoe Machinery Company of Boston, known as the shoe machinery trust, forced a seventeen-year agreement on manufacturers before any machinery would be supplied them.

In addition to the above actions, Representative Hardwick, Democrat, of Georgia, introduced a resolution for an investigation of the Sugar Trust, and Representative Francis, Democrat, of Ohio, presented a bill for a probe of the American Woollen Company of Boston.

The Express Trust was also included in the general attack by action of the Interstate Commerce Board, which believes all the companies work in concert, and that their methods should be investigated.

STEEL TRUST PROBE FAVORED IN HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Investigation of the United States Steel Corporation, charged with being a trust, was practically assured to-day. The House Committee on Rules voted to report favorably the Stanley resolution for a special committee of nine to conduct an inquiry.

The Stanley resolution originally contained a provision that all violations of anti-trust and other trade statutes should be investigated, but, as agreed to, the steel appropriation was made the special target.

It is said, however, that an inquiry into the American Sugar Refinery Company may later be ordered.

The Stanley resolution specifically directs the committee to ascertain whether the steel corporation has relations or affiliations with the Pennsylvania Steel Company, the Cambria Steel Company, the Lackawanna Steel Company, or any nominally independent steel company.

Special inquiry is directed as to whether the business relations of the steel corporation with other concerns has resulted in violations by the latter of the anti-trust laws.

Judge Gary, chairman of the Board of Directors of the United States Steel Corporation, when told of the House resolution of inquiry, declined to make any comment.

SWEEPING INQUIRY OF WOOL TRUST.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—Congressional inquiry into the alleged existence of a woolen trust was asked to-day by Representative Francis of Ohio, a Democrat. Mr. Francis offered a resolution providing for a committee of nine to investigate the American Woollen Company of Boston, his suggested trust.

The committee is directed to inquire whether the company has limited or controlled the buying and selling of wool in certain communities; whether it has attempted to fix prices; whether it has attempted to fix the price of wool; what its stockholdings are in subsidiary companies; whether it has engaged in speculation in stocks, the lowering of which, blacklisting of employees, and the employment of child labor.

The concern's relations with thirty specified companies are to be probed. These include the Pittsburgh Woolen Company, the Pittsburgh Woolen Company, and the Pittsburgh Woolen Company.

EXPLOSION DRIVES SCORES TO ROOF AND CAUSES SIX TO FAINT.

There was an explosion and fire this afternoon on the eleventh floor of the Commercial Building, which takes up the entire block bounded by Broadway, Lafayette place, Mercer street and West Street.

The explosion occurred in the midst of 10 girls working for L. Henry & Company, manufacturers of boxes and cartons.

Although the flames gained but little headway and the majority of the young women kept their heads, there was enough excitement to cause half a dozen young girls to faint and to send two more in a wild stampede for the roof exit.

Just what caused the explosion no one could tell after the excitement had subsided. Frank Molinelli, an employee of the firm, however, suggested that as soon as he saw the fire he rushed to a standpipe and turned on the water. The fire was flooded and extinguished before the flames arrived.

There are sixteen exits from the building, not counting four elevators. The girls who fled in panic, however, sought only the roof exit. Many of the young women in the panic had friends who lost their lives in the Asch Building fire, three blocks away, which was more responsible for their fright than any other cause. For if they had waited a few minutes with their cooler companions they would have seen the little blaze put out.
